

The game plan to test the board would be to run the GUI and think of all move/click submissions/combinations and test all corners of them

